ENHANCING THE COMMUNITY THROUGH SHARED STRENGTH

AbbVie's Supply Chain success is enhanced by the quality and timeliness of our suppliers. We encourage all suppliers—who provide the products and services we use—to contact us, regardless of their business size, gender, race or ethnicity. Our partnerships with diverse companies build shared economic strength, enhancing business and surrounding communities.

We identify and welcome suppliers with the following small-business owner types: disadvantaged, women, ANC/Indian Tribes, HUBZone (companies located in historically underutilized business zones), minority, veteran and service-disabled veterans. Our supplier diversity program extends throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

An innovative spirit driven by the relentless pursuit to improve healthcare on a global basis.

ABBVIE

OUR RICH AND DIVERSE HISTORY

Welcome to the world's most experienced start-up.

AbbVie is a global, research-based biopharmaceutical company formed in 2013 following separation from Abbott, which was founded in 1888 by Chicago physician, Dr. Wallace Abbott. AbbVie has the stability, resources, expertise and passion to discover, develop, and bring to market groundbreaking science to solve the biggest health problems facing the world.

“AbbVie’s Supplier Diversity Program seeks out small businesses, minorities, women, persons with disabilities, veterans and service-disabled veteran-owned business enterprises.

We foster an inclusive business environment. This is an integral part of our culture that allows us to broaden our understanding of the customers we serve. Conducting business with diverse suppliers adds to our innovative spirit and mutually strengthens local economies.”
